7 次の対話文を読んで、あとの設問に答えなさい。

Beth : Hi, Keita. Ms. Jones is going to leave Japan this month and go to China to teach English.

Keita : Really? She was my English teacher last year. I liked her English class.

Beth : I'm (ア) a party for her. Can you help me?

Keita : Sure. あなたはいつパーティーをするかをもう決めましたか。

Beth : Not yet. But Ms. Jones said, "I'm busy on Sunday, but I usually don't have any plans on Saturday." So, we can have the party on Saturday.

Keita : I see. When is she going to leave?

Beth : She's going to leave here on March 29. Saturdays before that day are March 18 and 25.

Keita : We have only 6 days until 18. So, 25 is better. We need some time to *prepare for the party.

Beth : Right. Let's start the party at three. We can have tea and some *sweets with Ms. Jones. Where can we get sweets?

Keita : We can ① buy some sweets at ② the new shop near ③ the station before ④ the party.

Beth : I know the shop. Their sweets are very good. And we want some drinks, too. We can ask our friends, "Please bring tea, coffee, or juice."

Keita : That's good idea. My classmates took many pictures with Ms. Jones last year.

We can make an *album and give it to her (ウ) a present.

Beth : Perfect!

8 次の英文を読んで、あとの設問に答えなさい。

Many of us are attracted to stars. When we see stars at night, we wonder how many stars there are and what is there at the end of *space. In the ancient times, people often spent time *looking up at stars. At that time, people didn't have *telescopes and they didn't have much knowledge about stars. However, they realized some stars were seen *throughout the year and some stars were seen only during a *certain season. So, by watching (ア) the *motion of each star, they knew when the seasons changed. It helped them *grow *crops well. They also found some stars were brighter than others and gave them names. Some people used the stars for *directions.

People in the ancient times did something else, too. They used their *imagination and drew pictures in the night sky. How did they do that? They connected stars with lines and made some shapes. For example, one group of stars looked like a bear and another group of stars looked like a fish. They are called *constellations.

It was interesting for the people to find (ウ). So, many people enjoyed making their own constellations. As a result, the number of constellations became more than 100. There were no rules to create new constellations and the same group of stars sometimes had different names in different places. It created a lot of *confusion. So, 88 *official constellations were (エ) in 1928. They are the constellations known around the world.

Today, we can see much more stars and much *farther stars through microscopes. And we can see amazing pictures of *galaxies. But that's not all. *Astronauts traveled space in 1961 for the first time. Since then, many astronauts have been there. Soon even common people will be able to go to space freely. But for now, how about looking up at the stars and creating your own constellation? It wouldn't be recognized as an official constellation. But your imagination will be *stirred like people in the ancient times.

注釈) space 宇宙 look up 見上げる telescope 望遠鏡
throughout ~ ~を通して certain 特定の motion 動き
